Re: PTP

Great. I'll send this out today to PTP. Thanks for looking at it.

fyi - we should keep saying "Proposed Order" in the body fo the Consent Agreement because legally we are merely proposing the order to our regional judicial officer, who may or may not sign the final order. It's his independent decision whether the order as proposed is in the public interest. I've seen other attorneys choose not to say proposed in the past, but I think the consensus up here now is that we say "proposed." Note, however, that looking at the Final Order again I just decided to delete the word "proposed" from the Final Order that the RJO signs, to avoid confusion and also because I personally hate how it just gets crossed out, and looks sloppy.

Re: PTP

This looks very good. My one and only comment is that I thought this was the Final Order. If so, we need to substitute "Final" where it now says "Proposed" in the title, the footer, and numerous paragraphs.

Thanks. David
